The Style Invitational

WEEK 147: JUST FOR LIFFS

snapshots.

-n. A look of reproach given by a child to an impossibly unhip parent. Dubuque -adj. Bored silly from having to look at a neighbor's travel Albuquerque

adj. Describes the look of a well-dressed gangster.

Okeefenokee-v. To shake one's head violently in approval.

Lubbock-n. The inadvertent exposure of a plumber's glutcal crack.

Milwaukeecreak in a floorboard that sounds like flatulence.

Place names can be from anywhere in the world. First-prize winner gets a rare vintage set of six inspirational Jlm Bakker audiotapes in which the famous evangelist teaches you how to be a good person. The tapes were made in the early 1980s, before Jim was thrown in jail for first-degree criminal sleazeballing, treason, piracy, sedition, poltroonery, bootlegging, pandering, anarchy, and generally being an oily hunk of crap.

wins a pirate flag. Adams and Lloyd created a word game called Liffs. A Liff identifies a familiar, tantalizing concept without a word to define it, and pairs it with a perfectly good but underutilized word that just loafs around on maps and street signs. Your challenge is to ne up with original Liffs like those above.

Marts of Silver Spring, who stole it from a 1983 book by Douglas Adams and John Lloyd. Sherry Runners-up, as always, get the coveted Style Invitational losers' T-shirts. Honorable mentions get the mildly sought-after Style Invitational bumper stickers. Winners will be selected on the basis of humor and originality. Mail your entries to the Style Invitational, Week 147, The Washington Post, 1150 15th St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20071, fax them to 202-334-4312, or submit them via the Internet to this address: losers@access.digex.net. Internet users: Please Indicate the appropriate Week Number in the 'subject' field. Entries must be received on or before Monday, Jan. 15. Please include you address and phone number. Winners will be announced in three weeks. Editors reserve the right to alter entries for taste, appropriateness or humor. No purchase necessary. The Faerie of the Fine Print & The Ear No One Reads wishes to thank Jean Sorensen of Herndon for today's Ear No One Reads. Employees of The Washington Post and their immediate families are not eligible for prizes. opnateness or numo Sorensen of Herndo not eligible for prizes in which we asked you to come up with rebuses, using at least two images from that day's paper.

REPORT FROM WEEK 144,

◆ Third Runner-Up

et She Who Is Without Sin Cast the First Stone

(Peyton Coyner, Afton) Let/She Who Is Without Sin/Cast/The First/Stor

Second Runner-Up:

INTO

Tiger, tiger burning bright / Do not go gentle into that good night. (David Smith, Greenbelt)

First Runner-Un-

We all live in a vellow submarine, a yellow su ell 'Oh' / Sub / Maure

♦ And the winner of the plexiglass legs:

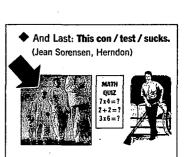

Sticks and stones will break my bones but w never hurt me. (Peter M. Pflug, Arlington)

Next Week: Looie, Looie