New contest for Week 1119: We want hue so bad!

You'll Never Take Me Alive Copper: The color of a dirty rat. (Tom Criss; Dave Ferry)

Oxymaroon: A perky brown. (Gina Morgan; Mike Thring)

Govern Mint: Please refer to specification Mil-Q-17983245. Rev. G, w/Appendix J, which details the hue, tone, shade, tolerance, refraction, reflection, intensity and brilliance of this color. (Paul Styrene, aka Ted Weitzman)

The colors above were among the winning entries in a contest from Year 1 of The Style Invitational, back in 1993. It was a contest to "name a new cravon color for the 1990s." pegged to Crayola's own innovations of "Tickle Me Pink" and 'Macaroni and Cheese." Given that many of Week 39's entries were as 1990s-colored as a Dodge Caravan in Island Teal, there were references to Joey Buttafuoco, William Kennedy Smith and the Rainbow Coalition — the Empress figures we can give this contest another go: This week: Invent a name for a color and describe it, as in the examples above. They can be crayon colors, car colors, wall paint colors, lipstick colors, whatever.

Winner gets the Inkin' Memorial, the Lincoln statue bobblehead that is the official Style Invitational trophy. Second place receives the appropriately colorful Happy Pill, a pink and white hand-size plush toy capsule you can squeeze to its evident delight, since it commences to giggle raucously for 13 interminable seconds. Donated by the inexplicably beaming Dave Prevar.

Other runners-up win their choice of a yearned-for Loser Mug or the ardently desired "Whole Fools" Grossery Bag. Honorable mentions get a lusted-after Loser magnet designed by Bob Staake: either "The Wit Hit the Fan" or "Hardly Har-Har." First Offenders receive a smelly tree-shaped air "freshener" (FirStink for their first ink). E-mail entries to losers@washpost.com or, if you were born in the 19th century, fax to 202-334-4312. Deadline is Monday, April 20; results published May 10 (online May 7). You may submit up to 25 entries per contest. Include "Week 1119" in your e-mail subject line or it might be ignored as spam. Include your real name, postal address and phone number with your entry. See contest rules and guidelines at wapo.st/InvRules. The headline for this week's results is by Chris Doyle; the honorable-mentions subhead is by Roy Ashley. Join the lively Style Invitational Devotees group on Facebook at on.fb.me/invdev. # HOROSCOPE

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

HAPPY BIRTHDAY | APRIL 12: This year you become much more in touch with the role friends play in your life. You have quite an assortment of pals as a result of having so many interests. Remain practical and persistent in your professional life. Others will notice the quality of your work. You are likely to see a promotion or pay raise. If you are single, you will meet someone in the next few months who will be of great significance to you. If you are attached, the two of you enjoy a very close period through summer.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You can forget having a lazy Sunday Friends call and neighbors pop in. Whatever may have been ailing you no longer seems significant, as you'll be too busy to notice.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Reach out to someone at a distance. Caring becomes much simpler when you aren't so invested in a certain outcome. A friend may light up your day with a great idea.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Before you know it, you might agree to meet a friend or a loved one halfway. Caring just seems to flow from one person to the other.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might feel as if someone you care about needs your attention. The two of you often have intense and meaningful talks. Today is no different.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may be overwhelmed by the invitations that head your way Clearly, you are wanted. A friend of the opposite sex may make a loved one quite jealous. Don't allow this to happen!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have a project on the back burner that you can't ignore any longer. Say your goodbyes to loved ones for the time being; they will understand. You will be available much sooner than you think.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your spirited and flirtatious manner stirs up a lot of activity around you. Be careful, as you might find yourself with too many potential sweeties and not enough time for them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Keep reaching out to someone whom you haven't seen in a while. This person will be touched by your caring and happy to share his or her news. Romance naturally blooms, whether you're single or attached.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You won't need to make much effort to find company, as several people have already decided that they would like to spend some time with you. You may be somewhat accident-prone. Stay focused!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Use the early morning for any important matters. Afterward, you might consider a visit to the casino, or perhaps you'll want to buy a lottery ticket. You feel lucky, but know that you might not be rewarded with the winnings you desire.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Your mind might take a detour, especially if you're thinking about a loved one. Do not stand on ceremony. You'll be up and running once you connect with this person.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Consider your options carefully before you leap into action. You would be well-served by staying close to home. A roommate or loved one will appreciate the company.

Rethinking life with irresponsible man

Dear Readers: While I'm on a short break, I hope you'll enjoy this "Best Of" column.

Ask Amy AMY DICKINSON

Dear Amy: I moved in with my boyfriend four months ago. Since then it has come to my attention that he stays up all night most nights playing video games. He then proceeds to fall asleep around 6 or 7 a.m. and is late for work, because he will not get up when I try and wake him.

He then goes to bed the minute he gets home, at 6 p.m. I am then forced to tiptoe around our small apartment. We have talked about this a lot, and I keep telling him he needs to grow up and start being more responsible. However, he keeps doing it almost every night, and it makes me really angry since I have told him how I feel.

 $I\, really\, love\, him,\, but\, I\, am$ beginning to worry about the future. I want to marry him, but I am concerned that this will never change. Please help me figure out a way to make this better.

Maddened

You're beginning to worry about the future? I hate to be the one to tell you, but your future is here and it's called "Grand Theft Auto."

Think about it this way: These are the good days. You're young, in love and have just started cohabiting. This could be as good as it gets with this You shouldn't have to make this better. He should make this I would think that packing your boxes, putting them in a moving van and unloading them in a different home might get his attention; but please don't move out for that reason. Move out because your guy has a very unhealthy lifestyle, and he's clearly more attached to it than to you. (October 2003)

Dear Amy: I know this may $sound\ bizarre,\ but\ can\ you$ please pass this on to readers? I own a pug dog. She's almost 2 years old, is very active at the dog park and loves long walks. She is the average weight of a pug and has a clean bill of health. It really burns me, though,  $that for \, every \, person \, who \, stops \,$ and comments on what a nicelooking dog I have, there are two people who feel the need to tell me that she is overweight.

When you see a dog, or any pet for that matter, and you want to make a comment about its weight, think about how you  $would\, feel\, if\, someone\, said\, that$ about your child, spouse or even yourself. It hurts.

Upset

I have an enormous and overweight cat and it used to bother me when people pointed out the obvious until I realized that they were right. Now I just laugh and say, "Hey, he's just big-boned!"

Tell people that your pug's body shape is pretty normal for the breed. Pugs are hilarious and lovable. This is a very small issue in the overall scheme of things — you are giving it too much weight. (April 2005)
