She wrote that her husband had died of a heart attack, and that she had lost track of the people who had given her a gift over the years. She was wondering if there was any way to find these people and thank them properly.

"I have been a college professor for 10 years," she wrote. "I have had many wonderful students, and I am not sure that I can remember all of them. Can you help me in this endeavor?"

"Dear Madam Mennon,

"I am writing to you about a recent letter from a woman who had been married for a number of years. She wrote that her husband had died of a heart attack, and that she had lost track of the people who had given her a gift over the years. She was wondering if there was any way to find these people and thank them properly.
