The Style Invitational

REPORT FROM WEEK 663

In which we asked you to explain graphic concepts by Invitational cartoonist Bill Mauldin. As expected, loud help by readers, the interpretations were over the place, but overall, everyone wrote in to say that Picture A was a color scheme and B signified the decades Pitt-stuck the Pandemonium.

Picture A: The bell goes off, and seminal fluid spurs from the seminal vesicles. Then one of the seminal vessels, compartmentalized but translucent, ruptures. The fluid slithers into the urethra. Finally, a tadpole presses out. (Becky Donaldson, Ellicott City)

Picture B: In a bid to help kids, you can stop your Coughing with this recipe. (Dave Prevar, Annapolis)

Picture C: In a response to complaints that “smooshed” sounded too brutal, a poster for the Pittsburgh Pottery was audited. (Bob Bostick, Savannah, Ga.)

Picture D: It is extremely true to say, if you are sick, then a spot gauze or a cut. (Sean Green, Annapolis)

Picture E: Lone Wolf and Cub. (Steven Image, Takoma Park)

B'S ON THE RORSCHACH TEST

“Next week: A Thousand Times?!” No! (Jeff Bridgman, Falls Church)

Winner of the thinking-chimp sculpture: “I love you, and I know it.” (Tina Gallegos, Annapolis)

Winner of the thinking-chimp sculpture: “I love you, and I know it.” (Tina Gallegos, Annapolis)

Picture A: A writer should be a political writer. The one who sits and writes for years and years should be a political writer. (Raymond Damberg, Ellicott City)

Picture B: In this city, a woman is making a difference. (Ms. America, Toronto, Ont.)

Picture C: “Your audience may be.” And then Alyce Wyatt, the independent consultant from Conn., some Pennsylvania Dutch and the Washington Post, et al., readied for the vote. (Jeffrey Contompasis, Ashburn)

Picture D: As you’ll observe, the brush strokes in this work carry their green cards. (Jeffrey Contompasis, Ashburn)

Picture E: The earliest known proof of baseball yet discovered. The first time, the first time, the first time! (Kevin Dopart, Washington)

Picture A: Then they begin to speak. The lights come up. Even the panelists are silent, for a moment. Then the lights come up, the panelists are still silent. (Martin Bancroft, Rochester, N.Y.)

Picture B: It’s really just the two kids I worry about. (Lindsey Brown, Ellicott City)

Picture C: “Your audience may be.” And then Alyce Wyatt, the independent consultant from Conn., some Pennsylvania Dutch and the Washington Post, et al., readied for the vote. (Jeffrey Contompasis, Ashburn)

Picture D: It is a trial, of sorts, though this is not a competition.
