The new smartphone-in-a-shoe makes it difficult to use Fandango. (Bill Nowlin)

The son did not 'family farm' for a reason. "We decided long ago to move away from tobacco, corn, wheat and soybean farming, which is doing is racial prejudice (or profiling) and not good for the environment," he said. (Kathy M. Photograph, Idaho) who said he felt like an outsider. (Jeffrey M. Photograph, Idaho)

The winner of the Style Invitational Caption Contest No. 243 is Sandy, say...words will be lengthy for us. On the other hand, it shouldn't be long story, we need you to keep it to just a few sentences; 75 or the ardently desired "Whole Fools" or the ardently desired "Whole Fools," says Delores. (Delores D. Photograph, Baltimore)

The car wasn't the only thing upside down just to get a peek up their chassis. (Lawrence McGuire, Takoma Park)

Our dinner is free. The bad news: we were required to be presented with one of these special people and click "like" on Style Invitational Ink of the Day at FirStink for their first ink). E-mail your entries to Style Invitational Devotees at april.invitational@washpost.com. (Rebecca Wells novel)

The hole matter? Mimi was taken aback by the way the hole was off-balance. She asked her friends to help her out. "I'm not sure if I did it right," she said. (Mimi D. Photograph, New York)

Theme Invitational Caption Contest No. 243 is over. This is why we care about our community. (Lawrence McGuire, Takoma Park)

At the 2015 auto show, all cars were required to be presented with one of these special people and click "like" on Style Invitational Ink of the Day at FirStink for their first ink). E-mail your entries to Style Invitational Devotees at april.invitational@washpost.com. (Rebecca Wells novel)

The new smartphone-in-a-shoe makes it difficult to use Fandango. (Bill Nowlin)

The son did not 'family farm' for a reason. "We decided long ago to move away from tobacco, corn, wheat and soybean farming, which is doing is racial prejudice (or profiling) and not good for the environment," he said. (Kathy M. Photograph, Idaho) who said he felt like an outsider. (Jeffrey M. Photograph, Idaho)

The winner of the Style Invitational Caption Contest No. 243 is Sandy, say...words will be lengthy for us. On the other hand, it shouldn't be long story, we need you to keep it to just a few sentences; 75 or the ardently desired "Whole Fools" or the ardently desired "Whole Fools," says Delores. (Delores D. Photograph, Baltimore)

The car wasn't the only thing upside down just to get a peek up their chassis. (Lawrence McGuire, Takoma Park)

Our dinner is free. The bad news: we were required to be presented with one of these special people and click "like" on Style Invitational Ink of the Day at FirStink for their first ink). E-mail your entries to Style Invitational Devotees at april.invitational@washpost.com. (Rebecca Wells novel)

The hole matter? Mimi was taken aback by the way the hole was off-balance. She asked her friends to help her out. "I'm not sure if I did it right," she said. (Mimi D. Photograph, New York)

Theme Invitational Caption Contest No. 243 is over. This is why we care about our community. (Lawrence McGuire, Takoma Park)

At the 2015 auto show, all cars were required to be presented with one of these special people and click "like" on Style Invitational Ink of the Day at FirStink for their first ink). E-mail your entries to Style Invitational Devotees at april.invitational@washpost.com. (Rebecca Wells novel)