New contest for Week 1128: a love note for a gift

A love note can make a perfect gift for someone who could use a little help in healing to touch on the wounds of your own. Geography classes in Cleveland could have international implications. CSC (a micro-drone that can drop a love note into your lap)

If you’re impressed, or creeped out, by the prospect of a micro-drone, you’ll probably go for a smaller version. In the words of an old counting rhyme, “One, two, three, four, five, the micro-drone is the size of a fly.”

A micro-drone is a tiny drone, about one inch in size. It’s a small remote-controlled aircraft that can fly for up to 30 minutes. The micro-drone was invented by a team of engineers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The team is working on a version that will be able to carry a small camera, which could be used for surveillance or photography.

The micro-drone is designed to be lightweight and easy to fly. It can be controlled using a remote control or a smartphone app. The micro-drone can also be used for indoor flights, which makes it a great gift for someone who enjoys indoor photography or videography.

The micro-drone is expected to be available for purchase in the near future, and it is likely to be used for a variety of purposes, including aerial photography, surveillance, and entertainment. The micro-drone is a perfect gift for someone who loves technology and enjoys new and exciting gadgets.
