Style Invitational Week 1245: Call us reprehensible ...

Rant about The Post! (Or another paper.) Plus winning ways to fill in a partial crossword.

We're in a war on terrorism and you print a convenient map of the Washington area right there on Page A14. Why not just put up a "Welcome Terrorists!" sign? (Dave Zarrow, 2003)

The typeface of your front-page masthead is horribly incomprehensible. It looks like "CtheWa8hingtonPo8t." You should consider Comic Sans, which is a very readable font. (Drew Knoblauch, 2011)

Does The Post so hate America that you wish to deliver our national secrets into the hands of our enemies? I refer of course to The Post's publication of page after page of "Classified" information, blatantly labeled as such in type so large that even the most dimwitted spy can hardly fail to miss it! (J.J. Gertler, 1998, back in the pre-Craigslist days)

It happens surprisingly seldom — once every few years, on average — but occasionally someone writes a letter to the editor complaining about this column. A week ago a reader wrote in to protest one of Chris Doyle's examples for the Week 1242 "then/nor" joke contest: "Then: 'The Kids Are Alright.' Now: The kids are alt-right," charging that "changing the name of the Who's well-known song ... is reprehensible."

This week: Complain in a humorously missing-the-point way about something that has appeared in The Washington Post (in print or online) recently, or in another publication, as in the examples above from earlier contests we've done along this line. If you're citing a particular article, misreading a headline, etc., please give the Empress enough information (date, page number or online link) that she can see what you're getting at.

the current style international display — one of the best — before he publicly announce the new design that we've been giving to recidivist winners. Second place receives a stack of oval Mitt Romney 2012 "Believe in America" campaign magnets, donated by Loser Dan Helming, as well as a bonus "I Believe The Washington Post" magnet, issued by the Washington/Baltimore News Guild (the E has one of these on her car; let's hope the Guild doesn't find out about the Invite's bogus-trivia contests).

Other runners-up win our "You Gotta Play to Lose" Loser Mug or our Grossery Bag, "I Got a B in Punmanship." Honorable mentions get one of our lusted-after Loser magnets, "No Childishness Left Behind" or "Magnum Dopus." First Offenders receive only a smelly tree-shaped air "freshener" (FirStink for their first ink). Deadline is Monday night, Sept. 25; results published Oct. 15 (online Oct. 12). See general contest rules and guidelines at wapo.st/InvRules. The headline for this week's results is by Duncan Stevens; the honorable-mentions subhead is by Chris Doyle. HANKY BLANKY: OUR PARTIAL-CROSSWORD CONTEST

In Week 1241 we presented a crossword grid by Washington Post constructor Evan Birnholz in which Evan had rubbed out one or more letters from every word in the puzzle. Then we asked you to fill in any of the Across or Down words as you liked (regardless of crossing words) and write a clue for it. (The entries below show the words that originally appeared in the grid.)

4th place:

38 Down (AREA CODE; _RE_CO_) A RED CONE: All of the highway repairs funded in the Department of Transportation 2018 budget (Duncan Stevens, Vienna, Va.)

3rd place:

If your entry is too good to earn an honorable-mention Loser Magnet, you could end up with these.

59 Across (NOISEMAKER; _OIS__A__E_): LOIS IS A TEN:

Graffiti found in a phone booth outside the Daily Planet (Frank Osen, Pasadena, Calif.)

2nd place and the solar-powered hand-waving baby Buddha:

36 Down (ORC; O_) OXY: Clever moron (Jesse Frankovich, Grand Ledge, Mich.)

And the winner of the Inkin' Memorial:

42 Across (ROCOCO; R__OC_): RELOCO: A job transfer to D.C. (Barry Koch, Catlett, Va.)

(Grid by Evan Birnholz/DevilCross.com)

Drosswords: honorable mentions

2D (NATE) GATE: How to end a scandal (Jesse Frankovich)
