An AMALGAM of dentists (Marilyn Glaser)

This week’s second prize: a more cuddly version of the dust mite. Actual size: 5 inches. (Pat Myers/The Washington Post)
A BROOD of pessimists (P.P. Rao, Chuck Smith)

A GREAT DEAL of used-car salesmen (Tim and Heather Allen)

A clowder of cats. A murder of crows. A busyness of ferrets. They’re “terms of venery,” collective nouns for various animals, most of them originated centuries ago by hunters. And what seems like centuries ago — Week 14, in 1993 — The Style Invitational ran a contest for novel collective nouns, producing a [collective noun] of entries, including the three above.

In the course of her dozen-year reign, the Empress has been regularly beseeched to run this contest again, but had always declined, replying politely with a list of the 40 or so collective nouns that got ink in the Invite’s first year. (see them at bit.ly/invite17; scroll down a little). But just last week, Loser Duncan Stevens sent the E some pretty persuasive examples (I’ll let him save them for the contest), and so we’ll cross our fingers and go for it. This week: Propose one or more funny new names for groups of things, as in the examples above.

NEW: No more emailing entries! Instead, submit them at this website: subpl.at/INVITE1178.

Winner gets the Inkin’ Memorial, the Lincoln statue bobblehead that is the official Style Invitational trophy. Second place wins a cute, cuddly Beanie Baby-size dust mite, from the Giant Microbes series of toys. You might like to cuddle up with it in bed, even though your bed is likely to already have several million of the real kind, along with their droppings. Donated eons ago by Paul Kondis.

Other runners-up win their choice of a yearned-for Loser Mug, the older-model “This Is Your Brain on Mugs” mug or a vintage Loser T-shirt. Honorable mentions get one of our lusted-after Loser magnets, “Magnet Dum Laude” or “Falling Jest Short.” First Offenders receive a smelly tree-shaped air “freshener” (FirStink for their first ink). Deadline is Monday night, June 13; results published July 3 (online June 30). You may submit up to 25 entries per contest. See contest rules and guidelines at wapo.st/InvRules. The headline for this week’s results was submitted by both Jesse Frankovich and Kevin Dopart; the honorable-mentions subhead is by Tom Witte. COLT FUSION: THE GRANDFOALS OF WEEK 1174

Week 1174 was our annual “grandfoal” spinoff contest: The challenge was to “breed” two of the winning foal names from Week 1170. And that contest was our famous one to “breed” any two names from a list of this year’s Triple Crown-nominated horses. The grandfoal contest is always more challenging than the first round because the names are already full of puns, and often not very “name”-like. But as in the 10 previous runnings, the field was star-studded. Or the studs were star-fielded. Or something.
