Wordsmith Francis Heaney is not the first to notice that "T.S. Eliot" anagrams to "toilets," but he's likely the first to turn that into a parody of "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock." (Bob Staake for The Washington Post)

Toilets/ T.S. Eliot
Let us go then, to the john,
Where the toilet seat waits to be sat upon
Like a lover's lap perched upon ceramic;
Let us go, through doors that do not always lock,
Which means you ought to knock
Lest opening one reveal a soul within Who'll shout, "Stay out! Did you not see my shin, Framed within the gap twixt floor and stall?"
No, I did not see that at all . . . .
(From “Holy Tango of Literature” by Francis Heaney)

This week’s contest was suggested by Loser Bruce Niedt, who showed the Empress a nifty book called “Holy Tango of Literature” — “holy tango” being an anagram of “anthology.” Its author, the puzzle editor and “Professional Word-Type Person” Francis Heaney, rearranged the letters of various poets’ names, then wrote parody poems based on those anagrams, like the “J. Alfred Prufrock” takeoff above.
This week we’ll broaden Heaney’s idea: Write a humorous poem, of any form, about or “by” the anagram of anyone’s name. Poems that relate somehow to the original subject will probably be more clever, no? We’re not imposing a length limit, but longer poems have to be worth the space they take up. We don’t mind short verses at all.

If you search for one of the codes that are located at the Broadway theater where “Hamilton” is playing, the search bar says “near Weehawken, New Jersey,” site of the Hamilton-Burr duel. (Screen shots /from what3words.com)

Winner gets the Inkin’ Memorial, the Lincoln statue bobblehead that is the official Style Invitational trophy. Second place receives a little book called “Butt Rot and Bottom Gas: A Glossary of Tragically Misunderstood Words” (Butt rot: a disease affecting the base of a tree; bottom gas: a gas used by scuba divers). Donated by Melissa Yorks.

Other runners-up win their choice of a yearned-for Loser Mug, the older-model “This Is Your Brain on Mugs” mug or a vintage Loser T-shirt. Honorable mentions get one of our lusted-after Loser magnets, “Magnet Dum Laude” or “Falling Jest Short.” First Offenders receive a smelly tree-shaped air “freshener” (FirStink for their first ink). Deadline is Monday night, Aug. 8; results published Aug. 28 (online Aug. 25). You may submit up to 25 entries per contest. See contest rules and guidelines at wapo.st/InvRules. The headline for this week’s results is by Chris Doyle; the honorable-mentions subhead is by Jesse Frankovich. WIT3WORDS: THE FUNNIEST MAP CODES FROM WEEK 1182

In Week 1182 we asked you to play with the app and website what3words, a map of the world that’s divided into 57... trillion three-meter squares — and each of these little squares is assigned a code combining three words from a list of 40,000. Your mission was to find some word codes that were especially appropriate to their locations, or to say what, if life were funnier, should have that code. All the locations of the codes below are real unless otherwise indicated.

4th place:

All future power plants should be sited in East Hampton, Va. — in others.back.yard, (Pete Kinsella, Glen Allen, Va.)

3rd place:

“flagpole.with.mortar, Canada” = ANAGRAM CAPITAL OF THE WORLD (Jesse Frankovich, Lansing, Mich.)

2nd place

and the egg timer ringed with weird human heads:

I find it strangely appropriate that typing president.trump.elected whisks one away to Quebec. (Jon Gearhart, Des Moines)

And the winner of the Inkin' Memorial:

buffoon.fruitcake.upstairs is in ... Wasilla, Alaska. (Frank Osen, Pasadena, Calif.)

Low-cations: honorable mentions

You can find stereotype..included.group right on FedEx Field, Home of the R*dsk*ns (Jon Grantham, Bowie, Md.)

We found the missing emails — they’re in the Clintons’ front yard in Chappaqua, N.Y.! At printouts.luminaries.specif...s. (Chris Doyle, Denton, Tex.)

Ironically, there are no houses near knock.knock.joke, outside Savannah, Ga. (Elliott Schiff, Allentown, Pa.)

Not surprisingly, there’s awesome.duration.celebrated in Intercourse, Pa. (Kimberly Baer, Woodbridge, Va.)

... Which is also known as the birthplace of the fake orgasm, with fictional.escalating.screeches. (Jesse Frankovich)

... Or more euphemistically, basics.weddings.reached. (Mark Raffman, Reston, Va.)

Sneeze...dragon.zone is in the (hopefully) appropriately named Noatak nature preserve in Alaska. (Pam Sweeney, Burlington, Mass.)

It seems the Bible went a little overboard in its promises: meek.shall.inherit (in Kirov, Russia) just this 3-by-3-meter plot! (Pete Kinsella)

Where else but Brazil: tenderest.waxed.bikini. (Jeff Shirley, Richmond, Va.)

Ugh, little.tiny.hands should not be anywhere near Chelsea (Mich.). (Marni Penning Coleman, Falls Church, Va.)

They have collected.mankind.purchase... at Mount Rushmore — the half of it that commemorates slave-owning presidents. (Dave Matuskey, Sacramento)

At Little Bighorn Battlefield, South Dakota, you will find owners.essentially.speared. (Julius Sanks, Ashburn, Va.)
In the CIA’s George Bush Center for Intelligence in Langley, Va. (noted in the search bar as “near Brookmont, Md.”): smart.policy.soup, not to mention cave.plot.calculating (Ellen Ryan, Rockville, Md.)

And at the NSA near Fort Meade, Md.: polices.voters.faithfully. (Steve Langer, Chevy Chase, Md.)

In the middle of nowhere in the North Pacific Ocean: completely.totally.lost.
In the middle of nowhere in the North Atlantic Ocean: completely.utterly.lost. (Jeff Contompasis, Ashburn, Va.)

With so many political minds already located up there, head.bottom.intersection should be moved from Western Australia to Capitol Hill. (Jon Gearhart)

The IRS’s overseas operations? give.that.tome (Argentina) (Alex Jeffrey, Columbia, Md.)

Maybe the next presidential vacation home will be in Lordsburg, N.M., at trump.whites.house — where the president could oversee the building of the border wall a few miles away. (Edward Gordon, Austin)

Or maybe trumps.backup.plan is to build a much shorter wall on the border of Mexico and Guatemala (Julia Shawhan, Silver Spring, Md.)

Easter egg found! If you type in calm.crew.quiet or songs.happy.indoor or another code assigned to the Richard Rodgers Theatre — home of “Hamilton” on Broadway — the search bar will say that the location is “near Weehawken, New Jersey.” Weehawken is where Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr had their once again famous duel. (Kathy Hardis Fraeman, Olney, Md.)

My childhood home in Stockholm, N.J., should be converted to a kilt shop: Right there in my old front yard is where paradise.swelled.beneath. (Hildy Zampella, Falls Church, Va.)

Ted Cruz and Rick Perry should move in together outside Van Horn, Tex., at the huge.loser.zone. (Todd DeLap, Fairfax, Va.)

At National Rifle Association headquarters in Fairfax: impress.potential.buffoon. (Tim Kloth, Springfield, Va.)

Searchers had to go all the way to Tanzania to find the fabled inoffensive.trump.tweets. (Todd DeLap)

Sarah Palin’s home state seems to have a theme going:
really.scary.mothering (near Healy, Alaska)
crazy.scary.mothering (near Nome)
super.scary.mothering (near Bethel) (Frank Mann, Washington)

Speaking of Alaska:
trump.likes.winning (in Nikiski)
trump.likes.losing (Kotzebue) (Frank Mann)
I’ve tracked money.laundering.schemes to a remote area near Tshiturapadsi, Zimbabwe — good, because their prince owes me money! (Jon Gearhart)

If “we don’t smoke marijuana in Muskogee,” why do they have pipes.full.herb there? (Doug Frank, Crosby, Tex.)

The map says it’s in southern Tanzania, but infinity.sized.dress is actually found in Your Mama’s closet. (John Hutchins, Silver Spring, Md.)

The Wicked Witch of the East’s mausoleum has been discovered at really.most.sincerely, near Krasnoyarsk, Russia (Chris Doyle)

Levi’s quality control department must be outsourcing to Portugal, at unzips.zips.unzips. (Jeff Shirley)

The Metropolitan Museum of Art seems to be trying to appeal to a different group of tourists with cage.rocks.gladiators (John O’Byrne, Dublin)

There’s a muffled.ventures.sinkhole at FedEx Field near the 20-yard line, but that’s no surprise to those whose hopes and dreams have disappeared there over the years. (Jon Gearhart)

Inside Trump Tower in Manhattan you will find the ripe.orange.bunch. (Todd DeLap)

In London’s Edgware district, where the majority voted to remain in the EU: many.vote.leave.

But near Rayne, in Essex, where every district voted to leave: many.voting.remain. (Frank Mann)

And Last: The Empress should have judged this week in Guatemala, from a little desk at pointless.maps.contest. (Elliott Schiff)
