Style Invitational Week 1263: Playing the short game

Combine Olympic country codes for novel matchups; plus winning euphemisms

Above and below are our Loser Magnets for honorable mentions, designed as always by Bob Szauke. They may be the size of a business card, but the Empire orders only 500 of each — and so they're really limited-edition Szauke mini-prints. And they’re not for sale, of course; You gotta play to lose. The slogans were winning entries in our 2018 contest for magnet ideas; "We've Seen Better" is by Brendan Beery, "ID'ed Card" by Reavisry Sharp. (Bob Szauke for TWP; Rob Szauke for TWP)

If Canada (CAN) played the Netherlands (NED), the cheering from the stands would sound oddly inauthentic. (Duncan Stevens)

If Honduras (HON) played Estonia (EST) in soccer, there would be no cheating and diving, for once. (Chris Doyle)

If Germany (GER) played the University of North Dakota (UND), there would be running, jumping, yelling, cheering... (Duncan Stevens)

This week's contest developed from a recent brainstorm in the Style Invitational Devotees group on Facebook, where the power of 1,500 brainy brains is frittered away day after day. (Join up and the Devotees will anagram your name in more ways than you thought possible.) The Olympics are coming up, and although it's a Winter Games year, that won't stop the Empress from wildly broadening our own game: This week: Using the three-letter Olympic national abbreviations and/or the abbreviation for any college, tell what would happen if one abbreviated team played another, as in the examples above from the Facebook back-and-forth. Naturally, it doesn’t matter if the country or school doesn’t really field a team in whatever sport you might cite. Find the Olympic abbreviations (on Wikipedia) at wapo.st/olympic-codes (here is a printable PDF); for colleges with football teams (via Reddit), see wapo.st/college-abbrev (and a PDF for them as well). You may also use valid abbreviations for non-football schools. Note: If you give the abbreviation without saying what it stands for, the Empress will toss you off the field.

Submit up to 25 entries at the website wapo.st/enter-invite-1263 (all lowercase).

Winner gets the Lose Cannon, our Style Invitational trophy. Second place receives, apropos of this week’s globally conscious contest, The Official Style Invitational Yodeling Pen, a.k.a. Jodelkuli, brought back from Munich by Loser Since Week 22 Elden Carnahan. Listen to it — and you really must — at wapo.st/yodel-pen.

Other runners-up win our “You Gotta Play to Lose” Loser Mug or our Grossery Bag. “I Got A B in Fumanship.” Honorable mentions get one of our new lusts-after Loser magnets, “We’ve Seen Better” or "IDiot Card." First Offenders receive only a smelly tree-shaped air “freshener” (Fir Stink for their first ink). Deadline is Monday night, Jan. 29; results published Feb. 18 (online Feb. 15). See general contest rules and guidelines at wapo.st/InvRules. The headline for this week’s results is by Jesse Frankovich; Jesse also wrote the honorable-mentions subhead. Suzanne Barnhill offered up the PDFs for the abbreviations. TO PUT IT MILDLY: WINNING EUPHEMISMS (AND DYSPEHISMS)

For Week 1250, after hearing that staffers at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention had been advised not to use seven certain terms in budget documents, the Empress ran a contest for euphemisms, terms that make unpleasant concepts seem less so. Of course, most of the civilized world doesn’t need to disguise “science-based” or “diversity.”

4th place:

Imprisoned: Scouting locations for the next Harvey Weinstein movie. (Ben Aronin, Washington)

3rd place:

Starving: In the family way. (Jesse Frankovich, Grand Ledge, Mich.)
