Style Invitational Week 1264: A cry for Yelp

Write creative joke-reviews for any place — plus the winning predictions for 2018

(Click here to skip down to the winning “year in preview” predictions for 2018)

And if you visit H-Unit, consider that bus ride a mini tour!! I don’t know what it is up and to the right as you pass the North Block, but the cement artwork is cool! ... Way too much tall fencing and barbed wire for my tastes ... — From an actual 3-of-5-star Yelp review from a visitor to San Quentin prison

This week’s contest was suggested by Alex Blackwood, who helps out the Empress with the Style Invitational Devotees group on Facebook. Alex had just read a negative review of a local donut shop by someone who’d tried to order a salad. But she also noted that people post reviews — including ridiculous ones — on Yelp.com for lots more than restaurants. This week’s contest: Write a humorous review, positive or negative, of anyplace (real or fictional) one might visit. Still, don’t write anything harmfully inaccurate about the place — talking about the roaches at a specific restaurant, for example.

Submit entries at the website www.styleinvitational.com/1264call

By Pat Myers | January 20 | Email the author

Wells Fargo
We’re reaffirming our commitment to communities
Established 1852 | Re-Established 2018

Most Read Entertainment
1 First glimpse of Kennedy Center’s much delayed expansion unveiled
2 Perspective: President Trump’s power to pardon
Winner gets the Lose Cannon, our Style Invitational trophy. Second place receives a cute, cuddly plush E. coli, donated by Loser Elizabeth Molyé, who, despite being Norwegian, walked right into the Losers’ Post-Holiday Party this month carrying a deadly bacterium.

Other runners-up win our “You Gotta Play to Lose” Loser Mug or our Grossery Bag, “I Got a B in Punishment.” Honorable mentions get one of our new hustled-after Loser magnets, “We’ve Seen Better” or “IDiot Card.” First Offenders receive only a smelly tree-shaped air “freshener” (FirStink for their first ink). Deadline is Monday night, Feb. 5; results published Feb. 25 (online Feb. 22). See general contest rules and guidelines at wapo.st/InvRules. The headline for this week’s results is by Kevin Dopart; Jon Gearhart wrote the honorable-mentions subhead. Join the Style Invitational Devotees group on Facebook at on.fb.me/invdev. “Like” Style Invitational Ink of the Day on Facebook at bit.ly/inkofday; follow @StyleInvite on Twitter.

The Style Conversational The Empress’s weekly online column discusses the new contest and results. Especially if you plan to enter, check it out at wapo.st/styleconv. This week: Dave Barry’s five faves among this week’s inking entries.

And from The Style Invitational four weeks ago . . .

DIVINED COMEDY: THE YEAR IN PREVIEW

For Week 1260 we asked you to contribute to this timeline of We Hope Not (For the Most Part) Future Events. Unless the date is relevant to the "prediction," the Empress just put one in at random.

4th place

April 28: In the seventh round, the Minnesota Vikings draft an end zone choreographer out of Juilliard. (Howard Waldeman, Columbia, Md.)

3rd place

Feb. 2: Punxsutawney Phil predicts an early end to winter. The White House immediately accuses him of “promoting a fake global-warming agenda” and cancels Groundhog Day. (John Hutchins, Silver Spring, Md.)

2nd place

and the applause gadget:

April 29: Following the administration’s decision to shrink the Bears Ears National Monument by 85 percent, Navajo elders rename it Trumps Hands Park. (Frank Osen, Pasadena, Calif.)

And the winner of the Lose Cannon:

Oct. 12: Columbus, Ohio, renames itself Genocidal European, Ohio. (Steve Honley, Washington)

Blech to the future: Honorable mentions

Jan. 29: Dethroning religion, opioids officially become the opiate of the masses. (Bill Dorner, Indianapolis)

Jan. 30: Michael Wolff reveals that during the second Women’s March in Washington, Trump asked, “Is it okay if I grab one of those hats?” (Robert Schechter, Dix Hills, N.Y.)

Feb. 5: Roy Moore announces plans to enter the seminary and eventually serve in the Boston archdiocese. (Stephen Dudzik, Olney, Md.)

Feb. 12: Vice President Pence condemns the Olympic biathlon as deviant. (Bird Waring, Larchmont, N.Y.)

Feb. 13: Fat Tuesday is officially renamed Your Mama Tuesday. (Jesse Frankovich, Grand Ledge, Mich.)

Feb. 22: Hackers break into the president’s Twitter account, posting dozens of sensible tweets before the White House regains control. (Warren Tanabe, Annapolis, Md.)

March 4: The Empress commemorates the 25th anniversary of The Style Invitational by putting together a “silver” prize package consisting of a foil hat, a fork with one tine, and a box of used staples. (Jesse Frankovich)

March 27: Jennifer Garner discovers that what’s in her wallet is 25 percent less than what’s in Samuel L. Jackson’s wallet. (Ward Kay, Vienna, Va.)

April 1: President Trump tweets: “I am not a fool. In fact I am, like, the unfoolest person I know.” (John O’Byrne, Dublin)

April 5: At the Nationals’ home opener, the president tweets, “My first pitch was the BEST and MOST ACCURATE pitch ever thrown on a Major League mound.” Nats pitchers spend the evening trying to prove him right. (Matt Monitto, Bristol, Conn.)

April 20: A blaze at a California pot farm is battled with help from 70,000 nearby volunteer firefighters. (Jeff Conomopasis, Ashburn, Va.)

April 20: Hours after receiving a gift of brownies from Colorado, Jeff Sessions is found wrapped in his office drapes, clutching a box of Cap’n Crunch and mumbling, “I have always depended on the kindness of strangers.” (Frank Osen)

April 26: Kim Jong Un’s latest Trump insults — “jaundiced lackwit,” “scrofulous bile factory” and “golf-cheating fossil” — are revealed to have been ghostwritten by George Will, Joe Scarborough and Dana Milbank.
May 5: For the first time, the Kentucky Derby is won by a self-driving horse. (Jesse Frankovich)

May 10: Trump nominates Roy Moore for the U.S. Supreme Court, effective "the minute the next one keels over." (Maggie Haring, Leesburg, Va., a First Offender)

May 12: Meghan Markle hires Mary Berry to bake the royal wedding cake. An embittered Paul Hollywood describes it as "dry and flavourless—overall a bad bake." (Bill Dorner)

May 20: As a stream of Russian prostitutes comes forward, the #Peetoo hashtag trends on Twitter. (Pete Morelewicz, Fredericksburg, Va.)

June 14: Trump installs kneeclers in the Cabinet room to add visual pop to his monthly praise-athons. (Dan Helning, Maplewood, N.J.)

June 23: The position of U.S. poet laureate is filled by a young lass from Nantucket. (Larry McClemens, Annandale, Va.)

July 15: The White House proceeds with its plan to drill for oil in Donald Trump Jr.'s hair. (John Hutchins)

July 20: Fox News reinstates Bill O'Reilly after discovering that all his accusers were women. (Jesse Etelson, Rockville, Md.)

July 24: Purple Line construction is delayed yet again when Montgomery and Prince George's counties can't agree on whether it should be closer to lavender or fuchsia. (Duncan Stevens, Vienna, Va.)

July 30: Following Mexico's surprise declaration that it will pay for a wall along the U.S. border, Canada announces that it will pay for one, too. (Frank Osen)

Aug. 11: Miss Piggy tweets: #MeToo. (Stephen Dudzik)

Aug. 2: Disney announces 53 more stand-alone films about Star Wars characters, culminating with "That Blue Elephant-Looking Thing That Plays the Keyboard in Jabba's Palace: A Star Wars Story." (Kurt Stahl, Frederick, Md.)

Aug 8: House Intelligence Committee Chairman Devin Nunes reveals that Robert Mueller once said "hello" to Hillary Clinton. In person! (Jesse Etelson)
Aug. 13: Having run out of things to reveal, Kim Kardashian undergoes a procedure rendering her skin totally transparent so that her internal organs are on display for all to see. (Tom Witte, Montgomery Village, Md.)

Sept. 9: Congress enacts the National Thoughts and Prayers Act to combat gun violence. (Mark Raffman)

Sept. 15: To rebut claims that the president is not intelligent, Sarah Huckabee Sanders reveals that President Trump, unsatisfied with existing translations of Malmonides into Latin and Hebrew, is secretly working on his own translations to better understand the philosopher’s influence on Aquinas. (Robert Schechter)

Sept. 19: The Cleveland Browns are mathematically eliminated from playoff contention. (Mark Calandra, Sudbury, Mass.)

Sept. 22: Roy Moore is named coach of the U.S. women’s gymnastics team. (Kevin Dopart, Washington)

Oct. 14: Sarah Huckabee Sanders is alarmed but unhurt after spontaneous combustion of pants. (Danielle Nowlin, Fairfax Station, Va.)

Nov. 6: Democrats sweep to congressional majority in 2018 midterms, promptly begin proceedings to shoot selves in foot. (Danielle Nowlin)

Nov. 7: Trump tweets, “I backed the Dems in the midterms all along.” (Art Grinath, Takoma Park, Md.)

Nov. 7: Controversy erupts after, according to voting-machine results, every 2018 congressional race is won by Vladimir Putin. In response, Trump demands investigations of Hillary Clinton’s email server. (Duncan Stevens)

Nov. 22: The Thanksgiving turkey pardons Donald Trump. (Mark Raffman)

Dec. 7: President Trump mocks Kim Jong Un after the latest North Korean missile overshoots the continental U.S. and lands harmlessly in the Atlantic Ocean. (Jesse Frankovich)

Local Headlines newsletter
Important local stories in D.C., Va. and Md., around 8 a.m. on weekdays.

Dec. 10: Roy Moore announces his candidacy for governor of Alabama, calling the state "pretty" and promising to "show it a good time." (Duncan Stevens)

Dec. 31: After reading only one selected page of The Washington Post, Trump tweets: "The Post admits all their writers are LOSERS, just as I had been saying. So sad!" (Rob Cohen, Potomac, Md.)

Still running — deadline Monday night, Jan. 29: our contest to pair sports team abbreviations. See wapo.st/invite1263.
The Post Recommends

Supreme Court rules in favor of baker who would not make wedding cake for gay couple
The business owner’s religious beliefs were not sufficiently taken into account, Justice Kennedy wrote. Justices Ginsburg and Sotomayor dissented.
1 day ago

Style Conversational Week 1232: The Laffman
There’s a lot more to new Style Invitational Hall of Famer Mark Raffman than ‘Be Our Guest’ parodies
5 days ago

‘This world is a better place without her’: A family’s savage final send-off to their mother
The obituary is short and decidedly unsweet, totaling just over 100 words spread over five increasingly savage paragraphs.