Style Invitational Week 1306: PolitiCaroling — a song parody contest

Write a song about today’s news to a holiday tune. Plus our Ask Backwards winners.

From Week 585, back in the middle of the George W. Bush administration:

To “Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer”

Putin the Red knows tactics

He learned at the KGB.

Rigging Ukraine’s election,

That’s a covert specialty.

He’s not for spreading freedom,

He just wants complete control.

Mr. Bush, one suggestion:

Look again into his soul. (Harvey Smith, McLean, Va.)

Fourteen years ago, and only one of the names has changed. In the Empress’s first song parody contest, Loser Harvey Smith referred to the president’s response when a reporter asked him if he could trust Vladimir Putin: “I looked the man in the eye. I found him very straightforward and trustworthy — I was able to get a sense of his... soul."

After all these years, we again combine two of the E’s passions: song parody contests and Christmas songs. This week: Write a song about something in the news lately — political or otherwise — using a Christmas, Hanukkah or New Year’s tune. We’ll give you an extra week to get the parodies done. If you make a video, we might feature it in the online Invite, but it’s the quality of the lyrics that matters most.

Submit entries at the website wapo.st/enter-invite-1306.

Winner gets the Lose Cannon, our Style Invitational trophy. And since we’re getting our holiday season underway, second place receives a dainty collectible porcelain toilet ornament, in a gift box. Martha Stewart always includes one of these on her own tree. Well, she should. Donated by Kyle Hendrickson.

Other runners-up win our “You Gotta Play to Lose” Loser Mug or our Grossery Bag, “I Got a B in Punnishment” (perhaps a new design). Honorable mentions get one of our lust-ed-after Loser magnets, “We’ve Seen Better” or “IDiot Card.” First Offenders receive only a smelly tree-shaped air “freshener” (FribStink for their first ink).
Deadline is Monday night, Dec. 3; results published Dec. 16 (online Thursday, Dec. 13). See general contest rules and guidelines at wapo.st/InvRules. The deadline for this week’s results is by Jesse Frankovich; Jesse also wrote this week’s honorable-mentions subhead. Join the Style Invitational Devotees on Facebook at on.fb.me/invdev.

INKQUIRIES: ASK BACKWARDS WINNERS FROM WEEK 1302

In Week 1302, our perennial Ask Backwards contest, the Empress listed 15 “answers” and asked for the questions. Too often for individual credit, the Supreme Court softball team was said to have no one who’d play in center field, or that its games always ended up 5-4. And that a pith helmet is what should be worn to a golden shower.

4th place:

A. Grace at the Trumps’ Thanksgiving dinner.
Q. After Lisa at the White House Halloween party and Julie at the Veterans Day breakfast, whom did he grab next? (Jesse Frankovich, Grand Ledge, Mich.)
A. The Supreme Court softball team.
Q: What is the latest place Brett Kavanaugh was caught trying to steal third base? (Peter Jenkins, Bethesda, Md.)

2nd place

and the squeezy eyeball and splatty poop emoji:
A. An almost-everything bagel.
Q: What favorite food did Elizabeth Warren cite as evidence of her Jewish heritage? (Mark Raffman, Reston, Va.)

And the winner of the Lose Cannon:

A. A pith helmet.
Q: After her idea for special makeup was rejected, what did Megyn Kelly suggest that Melania wear on her Africa trip? (Bob Kruger, Rockville, Md.)
