Q. What famed institution in Hamelin, Germany, teaches the skills of the Pied Piper?
A. The High School of Music and Rats.

Q. What’s the name of the dullest metal band ever?
A. Motley Ecrü.

This week’s contest was the sudden brainchild of Child Brain Gene Weingarten, who just a few days ago sent two urgent emails to the Empress with the examples above. And opposed to some of our recent contests, the concept is simple: Write a Q-A joke (or A followed by Q, if you’re into “Jeopardy!”) in which the punchline contains an anagram of one or more relevant words or names, as in those examples by Gene — who, in case you didn’t know, originated The Style Invitational and larded over it with no byline for a decade until the E, then also anonymous, deposed him in Week 536 so he could go win Pulitzer Prizes and stuff. You may anagram multiple words, and your anagram may consist of multiple words. Note: For the joke to work, the reader is going to have to recognize which original word(s) you’ve anagrammed; we’re not going to explain the entry to death.

Submit entries at wapo.st/enter-invite-1337 (all lowercase).

Winner gets the Lose Cannon, our Style Invitational trophy. Second place receives a prize that was donated to the Invite so long ago that it’s almost as old as its subject: It’s an Alexander the Great action figure, complete with helmet and sword, and brand-new as long as you’ll use that term for something that Russell Beland, then the Invite’s highest-scoring Loser, gave us around 15 years ago. Complete with lots of factoids on the back of the molded packaging (“In battle, he always led from the front; rumored to be under 5 feet tall”).

Other runners-up win our “You Gotta Play to Lose” Loser Mug or our “Whole Fools” Grossery Bag. Honorable mentions get one of our lusted-after Loser magnets, “Too-Weak Notice” or “Certificate of (de)Merit.” First Offenders receive only a smelly tree-shaped air “freshener” (FirStink for their first ink). Deadline is Monday night, July 1; results published July 21 in print, July 18 online. See general contest rules and guidelines at wapo.st/InvRules. The headline for this week’s results is by Mark Raffman: Jeff Contompasis wrote the honorable-mentions subhead. NOW HERE THIS! HOMOPHONES FROM WEEK 1333

In Week 1333 we asked you to create a homophone — a sound-alike — of an existing word or name. The Empress was fairly generous on what counted as “alike,” but still wasn’t going with, say, “Germ Annie” for Germany.

4th place:

Mnuchiaé: Trivial expenses, like a $15,000 flight from New York to D.C. (David Peckarsky, Tucson)

3rd place:

Sain’t: Sinner. (Jeff Contompasis, Ashburn, Va.)

2nd place and the 2-homophone “Dali Llama” T-shirt:

SerPhDom: Trying to eke out a living as an adjunct professor. (Pete Morelewicz, Fredericksburg, Va.)
